

I've read in yesterday's newspaper that the FCC is considering allowing the potential consolidation of various news sources to one parent news organization.

In my opinion, the general public is already hardpressed to get unbiased reports of what's happening in the world locally, statewide, nationwide, and worldwide. More limitations on the information needed to make informed decisions is never a good idea and definitely derides the notion of a free press.

To limit what we learn from ALL SIDES OF A STORY is not a good process to adopt anywhere.

Please don't impose yet another limitation to our freedom loving people.

Thanks,
